Introduction

This report is based on family history research into the Page ancestors of Greta Page. The research was carried out by Thames Valley Ancestry in the period September to November 2009.

The report includes the following discrete reports or charts:

1. PAGE family tree

This chart shows the direct Page ancestors of Greta Page i.e. her parents, grandparents, great-grandparents, and so on. Those siblings discovered during the course of the research are included on the family tree. However, please note that the main aim was to extend the family tree back at least three generations and it is possible that not every sibling was located along the way.

2. Register report for John Page

This report uses a descendent-ordered format starting with the oldest ancestor discovered (John Page) moving forward to Greta Page. The information in this report comes from a number of sources. These include:

- Birth and marriage certificates
- Census returns
- Some family information provided by Greta Page which provided the starting point for the research.

A detailed list of all the sources is included at the end of the report and copies of the certificates and census returns are attached. The overall aim of the research was to trace the Page line.

3. Place usage report

This report is a summarised list all of the places discovered that were associated with every person in the tree. Each entry includes the place name, the names of the people associated with it, and each of the person's events (e.g. marriage, residence, birth) that occurred in that place.

4. Kinship report

This report shows how each of the individuals included in the family tree are actually related to Greta Page.

The Page family has been traced back to the Leicestershire village of Enderby in the early 19th century. The most distant ancestor traced during this research was John Page, a Framework Knitter, who lived in Enderby with his wife Mary from at least 1830 until his death in 1873. The couple had at least 10 children (6 boys and 4 girls) all born in Leicestershire in the period c.1826 to 1842. It was not until the early 20th century that the family moved away from Leicestershire into Henley in Oxfordshire.

Framework Knitting was an occupation almost unique to the counties of Derbyshire, Nottinghamshire and Leicestershire. The legacy of the Framework Knitters, spanning some 250 years, is evident today in the Hosiery, Knitwear and Cut and Sew Trades of the East Midlands.

Suggestions for further research

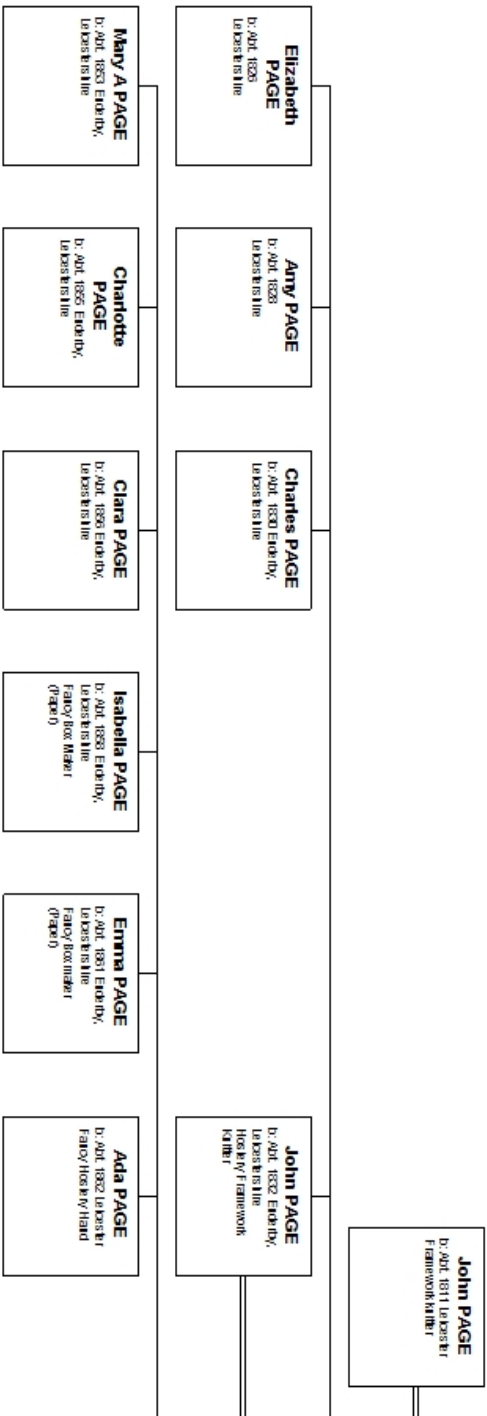

To continue research into the history of the Page line prior to the start of Civil Registration in 1837 it is suggested that the parish records of Enderby are investigated.

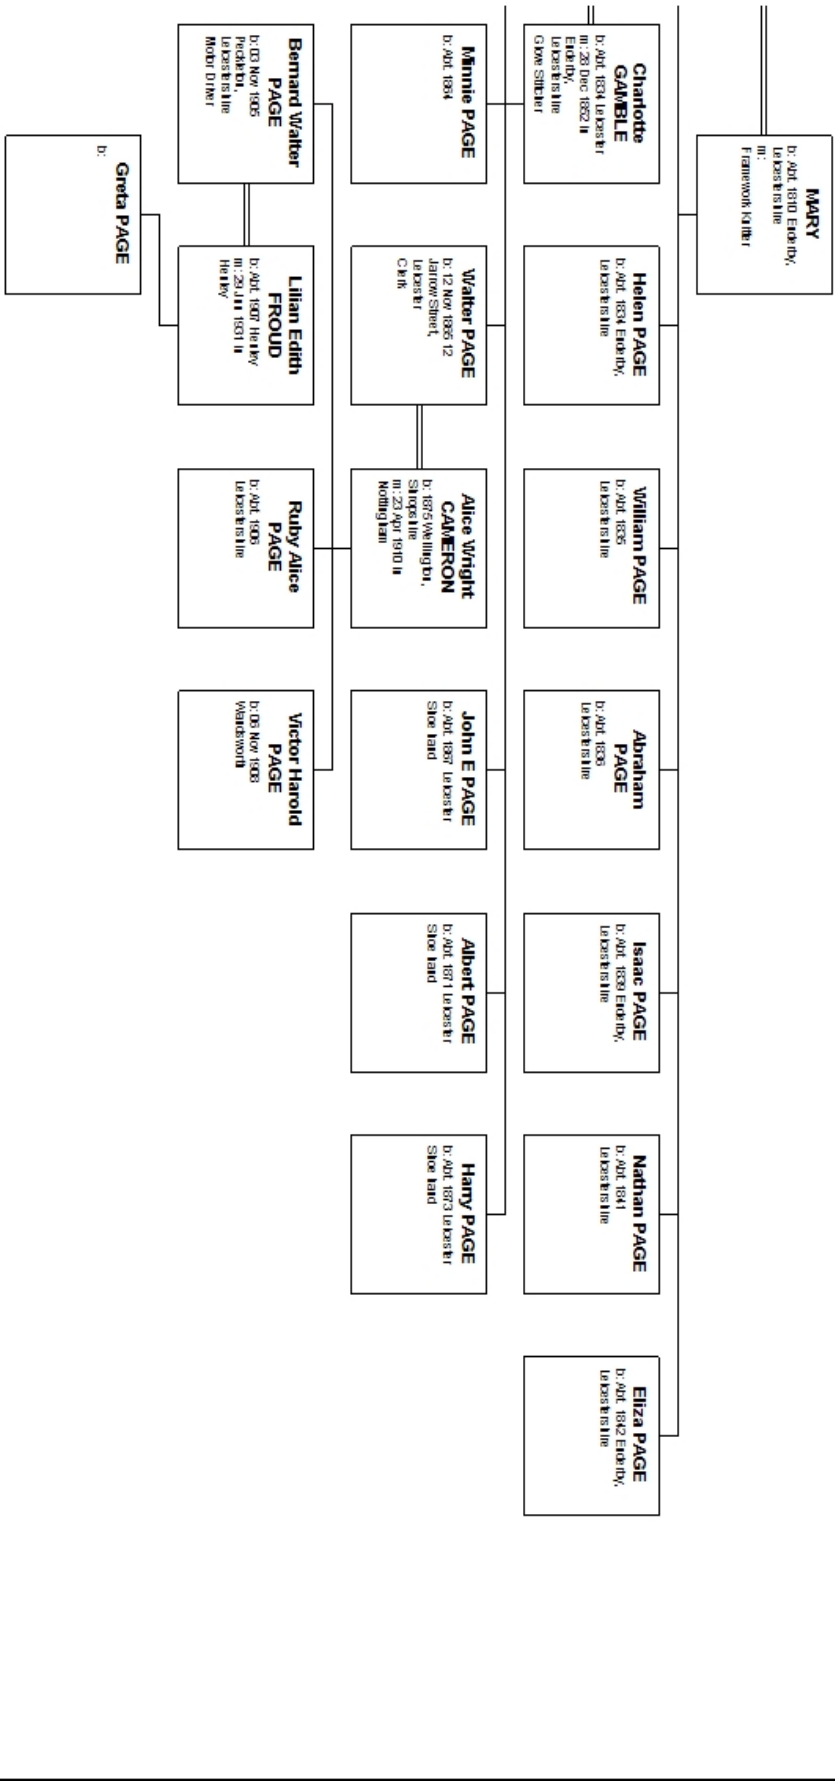

To provide more background information about the Page family more detailed research of the area using the census returns from 1841 to 1911 should give further information about children and occupations.

It would also be interesting and useful to locate deaths and burial places of as many people as possible.

Research using sources such as school records and directories may give more information relating to your father and when he arrived in Henley.
